ABSTRACT

The period between 1967 and 2009 witnessed the most dangerous era of Jewish settlements because of the symbolic importance of the City for Palestinians, Arabs, and Muslims.

This paper surveys the historical development of Jewish settlements in East Jerusalem that Palestinians consider their future capital. The second point tackles the strategic impacts for these settlements. The third one clarifies the goals of settlements in East Jerusalem which are controlling the holy sites, dismissing Palestinians, and draining the city of any political significance.

The fourth point discusses the geological effects of settlements which have very negative impacts on Palestinian Jerusalemites. The last point looks at these settlements as ticking bombs in that area. Finally, the outcomes and the recommendations which came laconic because of the complicated nature of the issue of Jerusalem.
