Abstract

The vocative style in the dialogue of Sura Al-Naml, as an example, in the Holy Quran

A study about its syntactic implications

This paper aims at presenting the vocative style in the dialogue of Al-Naml Surah in the Holy Quran. It shows the vocative style's features and their effects on the spirit of the vocative by demonstrating it analytically.

The paper deals with the vocative tool (Yaa) which is the only vocative tool used in this Surah. It was mentioned more than dropped. This reflects the strong and close relationship between the caller and the vocative. The dropping of the vocative tool "Yaa" implies the continuous rapprochement of the caller to the vocative.

Mentioning the real vocative manifests the mind and its ability as concerned with the call. The dialogue was gradual and sequence, and the answer of the vocative style varied from the predicate to the wording which is consistent with its context.
